Project Title	Heart Maps: a creative research residency in the Otways exploring layers of history through maps and audio
Brief Project Description	My fellowship will take place on Gadubanud Country, as a creative research residency in partnership with the Apollo Bay Museum, local artists, arts organisations, and traditional owner Richard Collopy. My research will explore the unique layers of the Otways region through maps and communication history, developing towards a new site-specific audio theatre work for later presentation. I will establish a portable recording studio at the museum and interview community members, producing oral histories for their collection, and collecting audio for the creative work.
Applicant Name	Vic McEwan
Location	Sandigo, NSW, 2700
Fellowship Category	Creative & Professional Development
Project Title	The Peep Papers
Brief Project Description	This fellowship program sees me consolidating my last 15 years of practice in order to contribute back to our sector by researching, writing and presenting a series of 8 discussion papers that explore “ethically engaged arts practices”. This proposal, with its focus on artform development, exchange, advocacy, and professional development, aims to lead national conversations about community engaged principles and the “social turn”, while identifying the unique position that regional artists find themselves in to develop this type of practice.
